Wilkes-Barre, PA, April 2, 2009 – Frank A. Bucci, Jr., MD leads the United States in implantation of a revolutionary new multifocal intraocular lens – the TECNIS multifocal.

Frank A. Bucci Jr., MD is the #1 implanting surgeon in the U.S. of a new revolutionary multifocal intraocular lens. The lens is called the TECNIS multifocal and Dr. Bucci is the first and only eye surgeon in NEPA to implant this recently FDA approved advancement in multifocal implant technology. Since the release of the TECNIS multifocal lens in early March, Dr. Bucci has successfully implanted this breakthrough multifocal lens in over 60 patients.

The TECNIS multifocal implant distinguishes itself from all other presbyopic (need for bifocals or reading glasses) correcting intraocular lenses because it is the ONLY implant that provides excellent near visual function (like reading) without glasses in BOTH bright and dim light.

Simultaneously, this new implant provides patients with aspheric optics that enhance distance and intermediate vision. Aspheric optics compensate and correct for natural aging changes that occur in the cornea. The TECNIS multifocal implant neutralizes more aspheric changes than any other multifocal implant in the U.S.

Dr. Bucci is recognized as one of the leading multifocal implant surgeons in the world. He was one of only a few select surgeons to participate in the U.S. FDA trials leading to the approval of the TECNIS multifocal implant.

Dr. Bucci lectures worldwide and teaches other ophthalmologists about multifocal implants and has received the American Academy of Ophthalmology's "Achievement Award." In addition, last year, he was voted by his peers as one of the "top 50 Ophthalmologists" in the United States as published in The Journal of Cataract and Refractive Surgery Today.

Bucci Laser Vision Institute has offices in Hazleton, Wilkes Barre, Pittston, Old Forge, Scranton, Mt. Pocono, Stroudsburg and Brodheadsville, PA. Dr. Bucci's surgical experience, ongoing clinical research, cutting edge technology and outstanding staff have distinguished Bucci Laser Vision Institute as one of the most trusted eye care institutes serving Northeast Pennsylvania for the past decade.
